About the Camp

This one day program is designed for high school baseball players who wish to continue their athletic careers at the collegiate level. The main purpose of this camp is skill development. Every aspect of baseball will be covered by the Bloomsburg Coaching Staff. The camp will feature small group instruction, lectures, demonstrations, and drills. This is also an opportunity for high school players to learn about college athletics.

Staff/Administration

Mike Collins – Camp Director, head coach at Bloomsburg University. Coach Collins has recently joined the athletic department staff as head baseball coach. Collins comes to Bloomsburg after spending four seasons as the top assistant at Division I Binghamton University. Collins has been very instrumental in the recruiting process for Binghamton, and has played a prominent role in the success of the Bearcats program helping the team to a berth in the America East playoffs in just the fourth season of Division One competition. He also directed the successful Crack of the Bat summer and winter camps for youngsters in the Greater Binghamton area. Collins previously served as head coach at Keystone College, compiling a 90-75 overall mark for the junior college in La Plume, Pa.

Brian Albertson – Bloomsburg University pitching coach

Vinnie James – Bloomsburg University assistant coach and recruiting coordinator
